PREFACE

The 1988-1989 NEBRASKA STATISTICAL HANDBOOK, is the tenth edition of this comprehensive collection of data on demographic, social, physical and economic aspects of the State. The data presented have been gathered from various government and private sources. A source note at the end of each table indicates where the information was obtained.

For users interested in sources of data on specific subjects, Appendix A, Guide to Data Sources, contains a list of the sources used in each section. Data from sources other than government agencies are subject to copyright restrictions, and permission to use this material must be obtained directly from the copyright owner.

Because of deregulation of some industries and reductions in government budgets, some of the data previously available on the county level or in other detail were not available this year. As a result, some tables were eliminated or not updated and others are presented in a different form. Terms used in the tables are taken directly from the sources noted, and definitions not found at the end of a table can be obtained by referring to the original source.

This Handbook was compiled and prepared by the Research Division of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development. The statistical series included represent those determined to be most useful. Effort has been made to insure accuracy in the presentation of the data.

Suggestions or comments from users on the content or presentation are welcome. Please send any comments to:

AREA & CLIMATE

SECTION A AREA AND CLIMATE

Ranking fifteenth in area out of the fifty states, Nebraska has 76,644 square miles of land and 711 square miles of water. The 93 counties vary in area from the 238 square miles of Sarpy County in the east up to Cherry County's 5,966 square miles in the north.

The invigorating temperate climate of Nebraska is differentiated from west to east. Normal annual average temperature and precipitation range from 47.6° F and 16.6 inches in the panhandle to 51.9° F and 30.3 inches in the southeast. On average, the month of July is the warmest and January the coldest in the state. June and January are, respectively, on average the wettest and dryest months for the state.

The statistics presented in the following pages cover land area and climate of Nebraska. The U.S. Department of Commerce is the principal source for the data shown.

SECTION B

By 1987, Nebraska's population reached an estimated 1,594,000 persons. This is over 24,000 more than the 1980 total of 1,569,825, or an increase of 1.5 percent during the seven-year period. The population growth of the 1970s decade was 5.7 percent, or an increase of 84,492.

Outmigration of the population continues to be a problem. In the period from 1980 to 1986, 45,000 more persons left the state than entered it. This exceeds the 0.8 percent migration rate, or loss of 12,616 persons between 1970 and 1980.

During the decade of the 1970s, the state became increasingly urbanized. Almost 63 percent of the state's population resided in urban communities of 2,500 persons or more in 1980, compared to 61.5 percent in 1970. In 1986, almost 47 percent of the population lived in the three metropolitan areas, (Omaha, Lincoln and South Sioux City) compared to 43.8 percent in 1970.

Average population density in 1980 for Nebraska was 20.5 persons per square mile, but population density varies markedly within the state. Douglas County, which included Omaha, had over 1,190 persons per square mile, while some counties in the western part of the state had less than 2 persons per square mile.

The demographic trends occurring nationwide are also apparent in Nebraska, as the median age of the population which was 27.4 years in 1970, increased to 29.7 years in 1980 and was stimated to be 31.6 years in 1986. The 65 and over age group composed 13.1 percent of the population in 1980, compared to 12.3 percent of the population ten years earlier. Meanwhile, the 18 and under age group dropped from 34.2 percent of the population in 1970 to 28.5 percent in 1980.

Presented in this section are statistics which review growth, distribution, and characteristics of the Nebraska population. The chief sources of these data are the U.S. Bureau of the Census and the Nebraska Department of Health, Bureau of Vital Statistics.

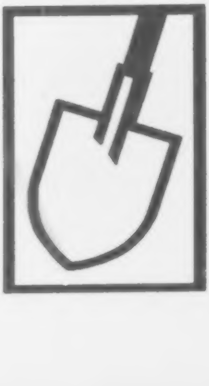
SECTION C

LABOR FORCE & EMPLOYMENT



SECTION C
LABOR FORCE AND EMPLOYMENT

Nebraska's labor force rebounded from a decline in 1986 to 811,000 in 1987. Total employment reached an all-time high of 771,000. Unemployment continued to decline with a rate of 4.9 percent in 1987, which was markedly lower than the U.S. rate of 6.1 percent.

Once heavily agricultural and agriculture-dependent, Nebraska has developed a more balanced economy. In 1950, farm employment was 33.4 percent of total employment, whereas it was only 9.2 percent in 1987. In 1987, wholesale and retail trade accounted for 25.8 percent of the nonfarm wage and salary employment, while services accounted for 22.6 percent, government, 20.5 percent, and manufacturing, 13.3 percent.

This section presents statistics dealing with labor force, employment, hours and earnings of manufacturing workers in Nebraska, and the Consumer Price Index. Sources for this information are the Nebraska Department of Labor and the U.S. Department of Labor.

(1) Data for 1970 and later are based on a Labor Force concept rather than the Work Force used previously, and are not strictly comparable with data for previous years.

(2) Data for 1977 and later are not comparable to prior years because of changes in the method of estimating the labor force.

SECTION D
PERSONAL INCOME & STATE PRODUCT

PERSONAL INCOME & STATE PRODUCT

Nebraska's total personal income reached almost $22 billion in 1986, an increase of 394 percent since 1970 and 53 percent since 1980. The largest portion of this total came from the wage and salary sector, which accounted for 52 percent of the total. Property income (dividends, interest, and rent) accounted for 18.5 percent, while transfer payments (retirement, social security, unemployment insurance, food stamps, etc.) and proprietors income accounted for 13.7 percent and 16.5 percent, respectively.

An indicator of the economic well-being of the population is per capita personal income. In 1987, Nebraska's per capita income was $14,328, an increase of 35.2 percent over the 1980 per capita income. This was slightly below the U.S. per capita income of $15,481, and the Plains Region* average of $14,792.

Nebraska's gross state product grew 24.8 percent between 1982 and 1986. In this period the sectors with the greatest rate of growth were Services (39.4 percent), transportation (33 percent), Finance, Insurance and Real Estate (28.3 percent), State and Local Government (25.4 percent), and Manufacturing (25.1 percent).

The statistical series on personal income in this section provide a basis for evaluating economic progress and for reviewing the changing structure of the Nebraska economy. This information includes published data from the Survey of Current Business and unpublished data provided by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis.

*The Plains Region contains seven states: Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Agriculture has been the backbone of Nebraska's economy, although its strength has diminished in the last two decades compared to other sectors. Its continued importance to the State's economy was clearly demonstrated in recent years, when increasing farm credit problems and adverse weather conditions adversely affected other sectors interacting with agriculture. These sectors include manufacturers of farm equipment and supplies; retailers selling feed, seed, and other farm supplies; truckers transporting farm products; and banks providing loans for farm operating capital.

Nebraska ranked fourth in the United States in 1987 both in land in farms and ranches and in cash receipts from farm marketings ($6,928,490,000). The state was first in 1987 in the production of alfalfa meal and Great Northern beans. It was second in the number of fed cattle and calves marketed, cattle on feed, and in the production of sorghum silage. The state ranked third in the production of dry edible beans, sorghum grain, corn for grain, and pinto beans. It also was third in commercial cattle slaughter (over 5 million cattle) and commercial red meat production. Other significant rankings were: third in number of cattle and calves, fifth in hogs and pigs, sixth in winter wheat and alfalfa hay production and seventh in sugar beet production.

In 1986 cash receipts from livestock were $4,259.7 million while receipts from crops amounted to $2,668.8 million. Between 1975 and 1986 cash receipts grew by 79.5 percent, while farm production expenses increased 94.8 percent, even though the 1986 expenses were the lowest in seven years.

This section presents data on trends in the number and size of farms, the value and use of farm land, crop and livestock production, and income from farming. Because of budgetary cutbacks, most data are available only by crop reporting region rather than by county. Sources for these data are the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

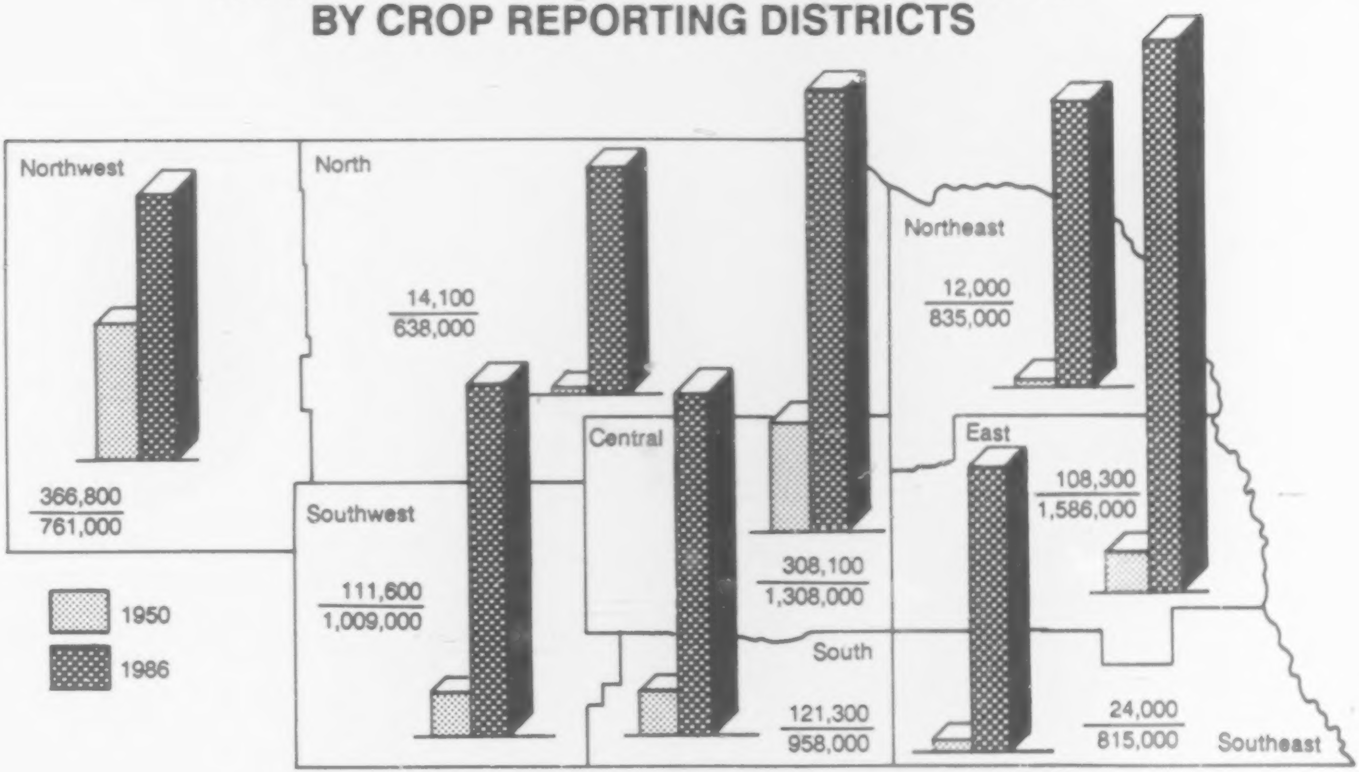
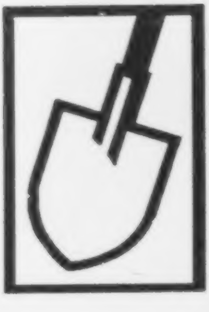
NUMBER OF ACRES IRRIGATED, 1950/1986 BY CROP REPORTING DISTRICTS



SECTION F

MANUFACTURING, MINING, AND BUSINESS



SECTION F
MANUFACTURING, MINING, AND BUSINESS

In the shift from a heavily agricultural economy to a more diversified economy, manufacturing has grown in importance in the state. But in the 1980's its growth has tapered off. Manufacturing employment in Nebraska reached a peak of 99,500 in 1979, but declined to 88,000 in 1987. The most important manufacturing activity in Nebraska is the food and kindred products industry, which in 1982 accounted for 35 percent of the value added by manufacturing. This was an increase of 87 percent over the 1977 value added. Other industry groups with significant value added were machinery, electric and electronic equipment, and fabricated metal products.

The changes in the economic base created changes in the markets for Nebraska products, and exports have become a significant part of those markets. In 1966, Nebraska exports of manufactured goods totalled $62 million. By 1976, the total was $309 million, and by 1984 it was $1.3 billion, an increase of 327 percent over 1976.

The value of mineral production in Nebraska was $ 191.5 million in 1987. Crude petroleum and natural gas accounted for 55 percent of this value, while sand and gravel and crushed stone were the next highest mineral commodities. Overall, the mining industry in Nebraska is small, employing 1,700 persons in 1987.

Reflecting the national trend, the trade and services sectors in Nebraska also have been growing. Employment in the three sectors, wholesale trade, retail trade, and selected services, increased between 1982 and 1987. All also had gains in sales or receipts between the 1977 and 1982 Census years.

The principal sources for the data in this section are the U.S. Bureau of the Census, the U.S. Bureau of Mines, the Nebraska Oil & Gas Conservation Commission, the Nebraska Department of Revenue, and the Nebraska Secretary of State.

There are over 96,000 miles of highways in Nebraska. In 1987, almost 99 percent of the State-maintained highways were paved, compared to 70 percent in 1960. Nebraska's Interstate 80 is 481 miles in length and stretches the length of the State. It is the largest single public investment project ever undertaken in Nebraska.

Nebraska motor vehicle registrations reached 1,497,409 in 1987. This included over 870,000 automobiles and 375,000 trucks. The number of motor vehicle accidents declined from a high of 50,802 in 1978 to 38,070 in 1987. While the number of fatal accidents in 1987 decreased slightly from 1986, the number of fatalities increased 2.4 percent.

Three railroad companies provide service in Nebraska, operating over approximately 4,000 miles of main track. These carriers are designated as Class I railroads, receiving more than $1.2 billion in gross operating revenues in 1985. Between 1965 and 1985, the tons carried by rail increased from 60.3 million to 195.3 million, a gain of over 223 percent.

Seventeen daily newspapers cover the State. Many smaller communities are served by weekly, biweekly, or triweekly papers. Television coverage is provided by 14 commercial stations and a network of 9 educational stations, and cable television is available in 106 communities in Nebraska. Radio stations serving Nebraska include 50 AM and 58 FM commercial stations and 12 FM noncommercial stations.

Presented in this section are statistics dealing with the transportation and communications facilities in the state. Sources for data are the Nebraska Department of Motor Vehicles, Nebraska Department of Roads, Nebraska Department of Aeronautics, Nebraska Public Service Commission, U.S. Department of Commerce, U.S. Department of Transportation, and Broadcasting Publications, Inc.

CONSTRUCTION AND HOUSING

SECTION I
CONSTRUCTION AND HOUSING

The number of building permits authorizing the construction of residential housing totalled 4,902 in 1987. This represented a 21.4 percent decrease from the previous year. This downturn in new residential construction was reflected in the decrease in mortgage lending, which totaled $733 million in 1987--a 13.9 decrease from 1986.

In 1980, there were 624,821 housing units in Nebraska, an increase of 109,291 from 1970. The median value of owner-occupied units was $38,000, compared to $12,400 in 1970, and the median rent was $170, compared to $77 in 1970.

Since 1980, it is estimated that an additional 41,727 new housing units have been constructed, and 3,749 older housing units have been demolished, for a net gain of 37,978, leaving an estimated 662,799 housing units in Nebraska as of January 1, 1988. In 1987, the average construction cost of the single family home was $68,904, a 95 percent increase over the average construction cost in 1980 of $35,332. The average selling price of a single family home increased 44 percent to $49,998 in 1984 from $34,656 in 1978, according to figures supplied by the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

Of the approximately 391,000 owner-occupied units in the state in 1980, 68 percent were in the urban areas. Rural areas accounted for over 60 percent of the owner-occupied homes valued under $10,000, while 80 percent of the homes valued at $50,000 or more were in the urban areas.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census is the source of the data presented in this section. Information about housing in Nebraska was obtained from the 1980 Census of Housing, and data on construction activity was obtained from the Census Bureau publications, Statistical Abstract of the United States and current Construction Reports. Mortgage lending data came from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

SECTION J
EDUCATION

Enrollment in Nebraska's public schools peaked in 1970-71, then steadily declined until 1985-86, when it began a slow turn around. The 1987-88 enrollment of 268,000 was an increase of 0.4 percent over 1986-87, and 0.7 percent over the 1985-86 low. The increase occurred in the elementary grades, while enrollment in the secondary schools continued to decline. The pupil-teacher ratio declined to 12.85 students per teacher in 1987 (compared to 21.59 students in 1965-1966).

A network of public and private institutions make post-secondary education available throughout the State. The University of Nebraska has campuses in Lincoln and Omaha and a satellite campus at Curtis. There are also four State colleges, fifteen technical community college campuses, and fifteen private colleges and universities. Total enrollment in these institutions increased 5 percent between 1983 and 1987, with community colleges growing by 28 percent and state colleges by 19 percent. The University of Nebraska and the private colleges and universities had declines of 4.7 percent and 11.4 percent, respectively.

Statistics in this section were provided by the Nebraska Department of Education, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

(2) Data for State and Local totals are incomplete because changes in Federal legislation eliminated funds for programs under which data was gathered on total program activities.

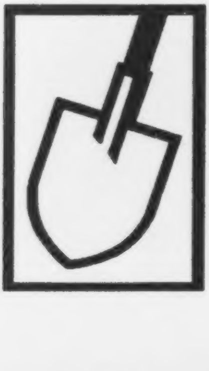
SECTION K
HEALTH AND WELFARE



SECTION K
HEALTH AND WELFARE

In 1986 there were 114 licensed hospitals in Nebraska with 12,153 beds. These hospitals are located in 71 of the State's 93 counties. The counties without hospitals tend to be sparsely populated: seven have populations of 1,000 or less, and an additional four have less than 2,000 residents.

The leading cause of death in Nebraska continues to be heart disease. Cancer is the second leading cause. Together, they accounted for almost 58 percent of all deaths in the State during 1986.

Welfare expenditures by Federal, state, and county governments have increased from $55 million in 1970 to over $380 million in 1987. The 1987 total represents a 10.5 percent increase over 1986 expenditures and a 582.9 percent increase over 1970 costs. Maintenance payments are made to four special groups--the aged, the blind, the disabled, and dependent children. Medical assistance is also provided for these groups and for others who do not receive maintenance payments.

The statistics included in this section present information about hospital facilities in the state, leading causes of death, and the state's public assistance programs. The sources of these data are the Nebraska Department of Health and the Nebraska Department of Social Services.

SECTION L

In 1986, the general revenue available to the State of Nebraska totaled $2.2 billion. Education represented the largest expenditure item for both State and local budgets, totaling 18.6 percent of State government spending in 1986, followed by public welfare expenditures, which amounted to 16.2 percent of State spending.

The largest source of State government general revenue is the sales and gross receipts tax, which yielded $605.1 million, or 28 percent of the total for 1986. Individual income tax, the second largest source of tax revenue, accounted for $351.8 million in revenues, or 16.3 percent of the total. Per capita tax revenue collected by State government in Nebraska in 1986 was $700.49, which was 74 percent of the $948.44 average for all fifty states.

Local government subdivisions are most dependent on property taxes. In Fiscal Year 1986, $921.4 million, or 53 percent of all local revenues, came from this source.

Statistics in this section present information describing revenues and expenditures of State government, county totals for property and income taxes paid, and voter registration in the state and its counties. The chief sources of these data are the U.S. Bureau of the Census, the Office of the Nebraska Secretary of State, and the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

SECTION M
RECREATION AND TOURISM

RECREATION AND TOURISM

Nebraska recreation and tourism grew rapidly for most of the 1970s and during the first half of the 1980s, reflecting increases in population, leisure time, educational levels, automobile ownership, and disposable personal income. This growth was channeled into a number of activities, including visits to Nebraska park and recreation areas, historic facilities, and other attractions in the state.

In 1987, over 1.4 billion dollars was spent in Nebraska by visitors to the state as well as by residents on trips to places 100 miles or more from home. This spending accounted for the equivalent of 36,000 full-time jobs, making the Nebraska travel industry the state's third largest basic economic sector, following agriculture and manufacturing.

The growth of recreation and tourism is perhaps most evident in the increased use of Nebraska parks, historic sites, museums, and other attractions. Among the foremost of these attractions are the park and recreation areas of the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission, which together hosted well over 8.7 million visitors during 1987. These areas enable a variety of outdoor recreation activities, including sightseeing, picnicking, camping, swimming, boating, and fishing.

In this section, a listing is presented of Nebraska parks, recreation areas, and other attractions, including attendance figures for selected facilities. Also presented are data on outdoor recreation participation by Nebraskans as well as such indicators of Nebraska tourism as the origins and destinations of nonresident visitors to the State and a breakdown of their expenditures while in Nebraska.

SECTION N

Energy consumption in Nebraska totaled 518.3 trillion Btu's during 1987. Petroleum products fueled 38 percent of the energy used, while natural gas ranked second with 18 percent. Electric utilities used 43 percent of the energy, while the transportation sector accounted for almost 28 percent.

Since 1970, consumption of several types of energy has increased substantially. Coal, used mostly to generate electricity, reached a peak usage of 6,894,000 tons in 1984 but has shown a steady decline since then. Nuclear power consumption has fluctuated over the years, peaking in 1982, but rebounding in 1986 to fuel over 40 percent of the electricity generated in Nebraska in 1986. Hydroelectric generation increased 22 percent over 1970, while natural gas consumption, declined over 53 percent. Petroleum consumption peaked in 1978 and then generally declined until 1985 when it turned upward again.

Nebraska is the only state where all electric utilities are publicly owned and operated. Costs to Nebraska's electrical consumers are among the lowest in the United States. From 1970 to 1986, electric utility sales in Nebraska increased 82 percent, and generating capacity grew almost 195 percent. Conventional steam sources, primarily coal, currently account for about 10 percent of the state's electrical generating capacity.

Presented in this section are statistics dealing with energy generated and consumed in Nebraska. Data have been obtained largely from the Nebraska Energy Office, the U.S. Department of Energy, the American Gas Association, and the Edison Electric Institute.
